

The Safehaven Marine-built Interceptor 42 motoryacht utilizes the renowned hull of the UK builder to ensure optimal seagoing capabilities. A typical utilization for this vessel: capable of operating as a back-up pilot boat and crew transfer vessel, secondly as a Harbour Masters launch and both a port and police patrol vessel. Thirdly to be capable for survey and hydrographic research operations, or as a compact-sized motoryacht. The vessel has a mere 8.800 running hours, with turbo and coolers having been replaced preventively last season. The vessel is sold including a spare (new) propeller and spare (new) gearbox.
